RE: Economic Development Director

Dear Citizens:

The City of Corsicana and Navarro County today welcome Scott G. Jones as their new Economic Development Director. Mr. Jones most recently served in a similar capacity for the Odessa, Texas Chamber of Commerce, and was responsible for all economic development activity for that city. His background includes a degree in economics and finance and 38 years in real estate development, tenant/landlord representation, real estate marketing and operations in the Dallas area, 20 of which focused heavily on site selection and incentives negotiations for nationwide major corporate clients, similar to firms Corsicana and Navarro County wish to attract. Scott has prior city government experience as both an appointed and an elected official, and has owned and operated his own firm. He will be assisting local businesses in expansion, as well as recruiting outside businesses interested in locating to Navarro County.

Sincerely,

Chuck McClanahan
Mayor
